Dark Hero Party Review!. .Q: BigQuery Start query with data-selector from another query I know a bit about BigQuery and trying to do one script as I am quite familiar with it. I have two queries. Each query should result in one table. Therefore I want to extract data from first query into a table and then start second query from that extracted table. I think it should be a script with data-selector but I have no idea how to do this in BigQuery! Please give me an advice. `SELECT my_field FROM (SELECT DISTINCT a_id FROM my_table_a) WHERE b_name IN ('...')`; A: Below is for BigQuery Standard SQL If you need to apply 2 SQL queries in one (you called it as one script) - query part is easy with BigQuery - you can write one inline query that will include both of the queries. Below is for BigQuery Legacy SQL If you need to apply two SQL queries in one - you can use union operator to
