As of the weekend, there are now 13 managers in the division, including the teams promoted from the Championship and League 1. With just 10 games to go, here are the managers to watch during the second half of the Premier League season. 1. Antonio Conte - Chelsea Conte came in with the promise of immediate results after being appointed in November. After a terrible start to the season, including an embarrassing 4-0 loss to West Brom, Conte has finally shown his first real tactical nous. With 7 games to go and Tottenham at home next week, Conte's arrival is likely to be remembered for many years to come. 2. Manuel Pellegrini - Manchester City Pellegrini came in saying all the right things after finishing 3rd last season. Despite the fact that the club has yet to make any major signings, City has returned to the top 4 - only to be denied a 4th successive title by winning Leicester's last game of the season. Still, Pellegrini is a football man who likes a challenge and will be eager to prove himself at West Ham next season. 3. Unai Emery - Arsenal Emery, who came from Sev
